

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to a method for the preparation of evolved microorganisms permitting the creation or modification of metabolic pathways. Strains of evolved microorganisms and evolved genes obtained by the method are also provided. The invention is also directed to the use of evolved microorganisms, genes or proteins in a biotransformation process.